

My Lovely Bride

Written by
Friday, 14 April 2006 16:00

My lovely bride had some unexpected emergency surgery on Monday.

It was girly stuff, not serious... initially and all seemed fine. However as the week progressed seriousness took hold and the gal digressed and was back in for more yesterday.

All's well, she's on the mend and looking considerably better. Long story short, it's hers to tell.

Here she is last spring on our way south.