

Some Temporary Changes

In the past few days, my bride and author of this site, Susan, has been very under the weather consequently; the journal entries here will be posted by me. You will find them uninformative other than some updates on her normally good health (nothing life threatening) so bear with me. Seeing as she is seldom on the other end of the lens of the camera I will be posting some larger than usual of my favourite pictures of her.

This picture was taken last spring on our way traveling through this area!

PS. She will be fine, so please don't bombard me with a trillion emails. I am a hunt and peck typist!
